

Ben G. triathlete, coach,
Director of Sports Performance for
Champions Sports Medicine in WA,

“I was amazed! Not only could I maintain a higher physical intensity during my training and racing sessions with delta-E, but I also had greater clarity of thought and mental focus! Furthermore, I suddenly found that the post-race “slump” of sniffles and a slight sore throat that I usually experience about a week after a tough race had vanished. It was as if my immune system had kind of a boost” Ben G.

“IMPax Secret Weapons!”

As an elite athlete I must rely on high quality supplements to fuel a balance of a busy lifestyle and my own triathlon training workouts. About halfway through the 2006 triathlon season, I was introduced to delta-E and EnerPrime. Although initially skeptical, I gave the IMPax products a try. Before intense training sessions and races, I consumed a packet of delta-E with about 8 ounces of water. Every morning, I consumed the recommended dose of EnerPrime.

I was amazed. Not only could I maintain a higher physical intensity during my training and racing sessions with Delta-E, but I also had greater clarity of thought and mental focus! Furthermore, I suddenly found that the post-race “slump” of sniffles and a slight sore throat that I usually experience about a week after a tough race had vanished. It was as if my immune system had kind of a boost! I directly attribute this to the EnerPrime and delta-E, because this was the only nutritional change that I made.

Currently, even though the off-season has arrived, I use EnerPrime on a daily basis. Even though I typically catch a cold as soon as winter arrives, it didn’t happen this year. And if my day is ever dragging, a single serving of delta-E gives me a long-term release of energy and a satisfying boost that I never experienced with coffee. These products are amazing. I look forward to having the IMPax secret weapons at my disposal next triathlon season!

Ben G.,MS, NSCA-CPT, CSCS